For the solution of goal and tasks we need to analyse all existing normative documents on training of judges in Russia. The developed program should not contradict the Russian and international standards.

For more detailed studying of this subject we will consider also the international documents of training of judges, the websites.

Badminton in Russia is very young sport. Therefore for its full development it is necessary to address experience of the European and Asian countries. In these countries badminton is highly developed and enjoys wide popularity at people.

In the Republic of Tatarstan National Badminton Federation has begun to train judges on badminton before the Universiade of 2013 [1]. Active development of badminton has begun in 2010 - 2011 when preparation for the international student's games has begun.

In January, 2013 there the first international judicial seminar took place. However, in Tatarstan many competitions take place [2]. At this action, there was a chairman of technical committee on badminton of the International Federation of student's sport Roger Johansson (Sweden) who has acquainted the audience with changes in the international rules, regulations of definition of winners and awards ceremony. During the seminar there theoretical and practical training took place. On theoretical part of seminar regulations of competitions, their changes and the mistakes made during refereeing were studied. During practical training listeners have in practice shown the abilities and development of the received theoretical material. Upon termination of international judge's seminar on badminton the listeners who have successfully passed qualifying exam with a tolerance for refereeing competitions XXXVII World Summer Universiade 2013 in Kazan, the status of "Line judge".

There is no special training of judges. At the moment judges in the Republic are students of Volga Region State Academy of Physical Culture, Sport and Tourism, who study as office of sport as badminton coach.

In the course of carrying out and studying of the analysis of the obtained data we will reveal still problems existing. Having seen the problem we will be able to solve it.

Thus, disclosure of this subject and development of the program for training of judges on badminton leads us to increase in overall performance in this field of activity.

Conclusion. Due to the active development of badminton, it is visible that not all fields of activity manage to develop in leg over time. Over the last 5 years, the number of athletes in the Republic has grown up twice. In 2011 in the badminton Championship of the Republic of Tatarstan about 150 athletes, and in 2015 – about 300 people participated. Reorganization in training of scorekeepers has begun in 2015. There was special program of competitions "tournament". 3 persons are trained in this program in the Republic. The main way of training – independent training. In this situation it is visible that special training of specialists, at the moment, is not organized properly.

To organize full training of judges in the Republic of Tatarstan we offer to develop the program for preparation of judiciary board.
